New Brunswick, Canada

THINK of the Canadian Province of New Brunswick in planning your vacation. Nowhere else on the Continent can so much be secured for so little. The beauty and variety of the scenery, the comfort and attractiveness of the many seashore and inland resorts, the ease with which these can be reached either by rail or water, the abundance of fish and game, the unrivalled facilities for boating, camping and canoeing, must continue to make this paradise of the pleasure lover and sportsman more and more popular. The climate is equable and bracing, no insufferably hot days, but cool nights that bring sleep to the tired city worker who seeks rest and pleasure in the provincial towns and villages, or sport in the woods or on the rivers, lakes and streams. Practically every locality has its traditions of the days when French and English struggled for supremacy and for the control that it gave of the rich fur trade with the Red Man. Then, as now, New Brunswick was a sportsman's paradise, and the sportsmen of to-day know that the Restigouche is the world's most famous salmon river and that its great rivals are other New Brunswick rivers, the Nepisiguit, Miramichi, Upsalquitch, Tobique, etc. Sportsmen also know that more and bigger moose are yearly killed in New Brunswick forests than in other sections either of Canada or the United States. Then there are deer, caribou, bear and smaller game, as well as wild fowl such as geese, ducks, partridges, woodcock and snipe to be had in abundance in their season, while from April to the end of September trout fishing is everywhere abundant.

As the forests, rivers, lakes and streams lure the hunter, fisherman and canoeist with promise of the finest sport, whether with rod or gun, so the attractive scenery and the great charm of the many seashore and inland resorts appeal with equal force to those whose tastes are for the simple life.

If your desire is to camp, canoe, fish or hunt, the New Brunswick Tourist Association, St. John, N.B., will put you in communication with guides who are reliable and trustworthy, and whose prices are right. Perhaps you prefer a quiet boarding house in some delightful country resort or on the seashore, or quarters in a modern hotel in a summer climate that cannot be equalled, with comfortable days, cool nights, and no hay fever. Write the Secretary, stating your wishes.

From Boston, New Brunswick may be reached in a few hours by the All-Rail Line, Boston & Maine, Maine Central and Canadian Pacific Railways, or by the palatial steamers of the Eastern Steamship Company. From Montreal it is a short journey by either the Canadian Pacific or Intercolonial Railways. If the tourist should be in Nova Scotia, it is but a two hours voyage in a fine steamer of the Dominion Atlantic Railway across the Bay of Fundy from the Land of Evangeline. An all-rail ride on the Intercolonial is an alternative route that offers many attractive features.

CHAMPLAIN MONUMENT.

St. John, the chief commercial city of New Brunswick, has many attractions. Not the least interesting of these are the tides and the Reversing Falls. The tide in the harbor has a rise and fall ranging from twenty to twenty-seven feet, and visitors always marvel to see great ships sometimes towering high above their wharves, and at other times so far below them that it is a steep descent down to the decks. The Reversing Falls have no counterpart in the world and are therefore a wonder well worth seeing. With each turn of the tide the cataract turns. Twice each twenty-four hours there is a fall up-river and a fall down stream when traffic is impossible, and four times each day there is a short period when the waters are so smooth and placid that sail boats, canoes and craft of all kinds can navigate the passage with perfect safety. St. John was founded by the United Empire Loyalists, who, refusing to join in the American Declaration of Independence, abandoned their homes and moved to Canada, there to carve out their destiny. One of their most cherished possessions was the Royal Coat of Arms on the old State House in Boston. This to-day occupies a position of prominence in Trinity Church, where it is inspected annually by hundreds. Visitors to St. John all take a deep interest in the story of Madame La Tour, the wife of a French trader and adventurer, one of the pioneers of that brave and hardy band who first settled North America, and whose descendants still occupy a very large section of New Brunswick, speaking their native language and maintaining in a measure the manners and traditions of their ancestors. Whittier's beautiful poem, St. John, graphically relates the main incidents in the tragic story of this noble woman's defence of her husband's fort, one of the saddest pages in the history of pioneer days in Acadia.

With a summer temperature that never exceeds eighty degrees, excellent hotel accommodation, beautiful streets, buildings and parks, and with sea beaches within easy reach, St. John is a natural centre from which tourists branch out in all directions over New Brunswick and the Maritime Provinces. Ten miles from St. John in one direction is beautiful Loch Lomond, where there is excellent hotel accommodation and fair trout fishing; nine miles in another, the charming village of Rothesay; and twelve miles in another is lovely Westfield, on the St. John River, while closer at hand is the Bay Shore and Duck Cove, reached by the street cars, with a glorious outlook over the Bay, and fine opportunities for surf bathing. St. John in the winter season is one of the busiest ports on the Atlantic Seaboard, for then great ocean steamers that in summer ply to Quebec and Montreal on the St. Lawrence, come to this ice-free harbor to discharge and secure cargoes. It is the winter terminal of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and now great docks are being built at Courtenay Bay on the eastern side of the City at a cost of upwards of eleven millions of dollars, to provide accommodation for the trade that will follow the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Northern Railways, which are to make St. John their winter terminal.

All summer visitors to St. John should make the voyage up the river to Fredericton, eighty-four miles, and if time permits, will find side trips on the many tributaries most enjoyable. Rev. T. de Witt Talmage once described the St. John River as "the Rhine and the Hudson commingled in one scene of beauty and grandeur." Many other writers have dwelt on the beauties of this magnificent river.

Fredericton, the capital of New Brunswick, reached either by steamer or rail, is a very beautiful City. It contains the Parliament buildings, University and Provincial Normal School, and the Church of England Cathedral, one of the purest specimens of Gothic architecture on the Continent; and is a centre from which some of the finest fishing and hunting regions are reached. The level streets are all shaded with magnificent trees. Fredericton has good hotels and is a City in which the summer visitor delights to linger. Across the river are the twin towns of Gibson and St. Marys, and three miles up the Nashwaak stream from Gibson is Marysville, a hive of industry. Above Fredericton on the St. John River, are Woodstock, Florenceville, Hartland, Andover, Perth, Grand Falls, Edmundston and other picturesque places, and a game and fishing country that is famous the whole world over. The Grand Falls are second only to the great cataract at Niagara, while the wild and rugged gorge is unrivalled in its beauty. The real beauty and grandeur of this section is not as well known as it deserves. The whole region round about is a sporting paradise and there are opportunities for canoeing, camping, fishing and shooting that cannot be excelled anywhere.

Another and equally famous region, famous for its beautiful scenery, for its hunting and fishing opportunities and for the many pleasures it holds in store for the visitor, whether he be sportsman or nature lover, is the North Shore, comprising the counties of Northumberland, Gloucester and Restigouche. The Miramichi, Nepisiguit and Restigouche are the world's most famous salmon rivers, while the deep woods are the haunts of big game, and the seashores the home of wild fowl. The Miramichi is a truly noble river, and Chatham and Newcastle are pretty towns that afford excellent accommodation to the visitor, and make splendid starting points for hunting, fishing and camping grounds that cannot be equalled elsewhere.

Bathurst at the mouth of the Nepisiguit, and Dalhousie and Campbellton on the Restigouche, are also most attractive resorts and sporting centres from which to get either trout or salmon fishing that is fishing. Those who want canoe trips into the very heart of the forest will find nowhere anything better than a voyage across New Brunswick, starting, say, from Grand Falls and going up one of the rivers in that region, crossing over the divide and then down to the sea by way of one of these great salmon rivers.

The Intercolonial Railway, owned and operated by the Canadian Government, traverses this portion of the Province, which tourists will find one of the most delightful in the whole country, the seashore resorts being particularly attractive to the summer visitor seeking beautiful beaches and cool breezes.

On the Bay of Fundy, are many places which also have special charms for the tourist. Chief of these is St. Andrews, with its famous Algonquin Hotel, the finest summer resort in Canada, managed by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, a guarantee that it is of the best, and Chamcook Lake, with its gamey land-locked salmon. The beautiful Island of Campobello with the Campobello Inn, is another popular and well conducted resort. The Island of Grand Manan also will charm those who desire salt breezes and rugged beautiful scenery. Other towns along the coast are St. Stephen, on the International border; St. George, the centre of probably the finest fishing region in the Province, excepting only the North Shore; St. Martins, where there is one of the most magnificent beaches along the whole Atlantic coast and excellent accommodations for summer tourists at moderate rates. Still further up the Bay are Hillsboro, Hopewell, Albert and Alma. The wonderful rocks at Hopewell Cape, sculptured into many curious shapes by wave and tide, are a source of interest and wonderment to all who see them.

Other equally attractive points are Sussex, where the local militia camps each summer; Moncton, the railroad centre and terminal of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway now being built across the Continent, here the famous tidal bore of the Petitcodiac River may be seen; Sackville, a pretty university town, on the border of the great Tantramar marshes; Richibucto, Buctouche and other Kent county centres where there are magnificent beaches and beautiful scenery, and good sport with rod and gun. Shediac and Point du Chene, the point of departure to Prince Edward Island, are resorts yearly drawing more visitors, for they have much that the visitor will enjoy, including magnificent beaches and sea bathing and fishing.

International Railway

Uniting Campbellton, at the head of navigation on Bay Chaleur, with the St. John River Valley at St. Leonards, thus forming a link between the "Intercolonial Railway" and the "Canadian Pacific Railway" Systems across the narrow northern boundary of New Brunswick.

Connecting at CAMPBELLTON with the Intercolonial Railway, also with steamers during season of open navigation for various points on the Bay and Gulf, and at ST. LEONARDS with the Canadian Pacific Railway.

THE Salmon and Trout fishing of the Restigouche River and its branches, rank as the best in the world. A noted sportsman from England, after an experience on this river, declared "it is worth a trip across the Atlantic to catch a salmon on the Restigouche."

THE woods abound with Moose, Caribou, Deer, Partridge and other game; Geese, Brant, Duck, Snipe, etc., are also obtainable in remarkable number, all making it preeminently "a happy hunting ground."

Competent guides are always available.

The famous "Bay Chaleur" deserves special notice. Here the finest sea bathing in all America may be enjoyed. The name, signifying Bay of Heat, was applied by the discoverer, Jacques Cartier, in A.D. 1534. It is a remarkable fact that the water in the Bay Chaleur is much warmer than in any part of the Pacific Coast, even down to the boundary between California and Mexico.

In the Bay Chaleur there is but little rise and fall of tide, and absolutely no fog. The much vaunted climate of California does not equal this Eastern Canadian region for "glorious sunshine" in the summer time.
